indignation in Cooktown and other places,

mising It is no jeke for a very new country like Queensland to be saddled with This Comprehensive Work, now in the five or ten thousand starving Orientals, The population is so thin that the burdon scattered communities. It is feared, moreover, that the Chinese will form into armed bands and make descents upon the towns to seize provisions and property after the fashion of banditti in the Central Kingdom. These fears are, perhaps, somewhat exaggerated, but there can be no doubt that the Chinese will not hesitate to steal in preference to starving.

Hitherto, however, nothing has been done, or apparently even thought of, to avert the threatened disaster. All that has been considered as yet has been the best means for the prevention of further immigration. Of course it is right, in the present position of affairs, to make it known that there is no room now for more Chinese in Queonsland, but it is surely never intended by the Government is the legitimate function of the foreign banks and people of Queensland to leave the resources. It may be urged that they came masked and in spite of repeated warnings, but now that they are there and without the means of returning the best must be made of a bad job. The Government should be able to give them some employment. There are railroads to be made, and other public works to be carried out. The Chinese in California constructed the ranways connecting the Pacific with the Eastern States. and why should not some of the Queensland railways be made by Chinese labour? Or

Indeed, it seems that the quotation of undeficed coins at a premium instead of the defaced coins at a discount deprives the banks and Indian houses of the advantages to which they are fairly entitled. At the present time there is a difference go-betweens. COOKTOWN. (From our own Correspondent.)

11th May. 1877. The proclamation of sixteen days quarantine to be performed by all vessels striving in Queens land ports from Ohins has caused a great deal of expense to those interested in the passenge trade, and appears to be exercising a check upon it. Since I wrote last the vessels in quarantine have all completed their term, the steamer Bowen, the last of them, being expected hourly with ber passengers from Fitzroy Island,

EGYPTIAN FINANCE.

A correspondent at Cairo, writing on the 30th March, says: The organization has been working very satisfactorily lately. The large amounts received at the Caisse since its installationesmot do otherwise than impress favourably the most sceptical as regards the resources of Egypt. Altogether upwards of £1,000,000 has been received since the 15th of January, and this is the most unfavourable period of the year for taxes. The amount in band for the dividend on the Preferred Stock (forming first charge on the revenues of Egypt), due on the 15th of April, is about £320,000. There are only fifteen days left, during which more as expected to be paid over by the Railway Administration. Still it is expected by competent nuthorities that there will be about £60,000 short, which sum the Commissioners will have to take from the money in their hands from general revenues. This is, however, not a real deficit. The ordinary receipts of the railway administration would have been sufficient to cover the accounts due on the 15th of April left on Saturday with the following gold .next, but for the following reason -- When A.J.S. Bank, 2,103oz. 14dwt. Ogr.; Q.N. Bank, General Marriott took over the direction of affairs be found considerable amounts were due for coals and other things, on which 12 per cent interest per annum was running. He thought it judicious to discharge these debts. and thus upwards of £120,000 was paid away out of current revenue. There seems no doubt that in future the net receipts of the railways will suffice for interest and sinking fund on the Preferred Stock. Several measures are in course of introduction affecting the coal supply, traffic, and general working of the railways, which will produce considerable economy in expenditure. The receipts on account of the Unified Debt do not look as promising as one might have wished. but the system of collecting taxes in Egypt is such that the receipts of one period of the year cannot be taken as a criterion or average. The great majority of the manufacturing population is thus domiciled outside Leyons proper. Of the eight towns Saint-Etienne has grown, and is growing, with the greatest rapidity. At the outbreak of the Revolution in 1789 Saint-Etienus contained only 9,000 conis; in 1846 these had multiplied to 42,000; but in the following five years they decreased to 36,000; in 1866 they had grown to 97,000; in 1872 to 110,000, and last year to 126,000. From what bearon been said, it will be seen that the population of the towns is increasing much more rapidly than that of the country. Indeed, as the population of the whole of France has little more than kept its ground for a considerable time back, it is evident that the atriotly pointed to settle the question of removing the raral population must be decreasing, while, as ship British Enterprise, with immigrants, to we see that of the large towns at any rate is rapidly augmenting. Thus, it appears that, in spite of peasant proprietorship, and in spite of the facility with which small boldings of land Recent arrangements for quarantine are costcan be acquired, the same tendency to mass the population in great centres of industry is beginning to be observable in France as in other commercial countries. The Londonos is far leas than in the older States of the American Union in New York, for example, where balf the population of the State is contained in twentypurnition and more than three-quarters of the assessed value of the property. Everywhere reductions of wages although the actual results to the public were or abandonments of industrial undertakings are perhaps not thought much of, after the fabulous announced. The number of the unemployed stories which were current of that wondrous land was greater during last winter than at any of mountains of gold and men with tails, yet the former period in the history of the United actual result, according to Signor D'Albertis fer States and, though at the close of the winter exceeded his expectations. On this occasion he the distress has slightly absted, the situation proceeds on his own private account, although of the United States will have the wed, yet the stely proceed in his steam launch to the coast New York correspondent of the Daily News a of New Guinea. Signor D'Albertie' intention While the immediate burden of what we quoted says : " No general revival of business is expected for the next six months. Wages in nearly all occupations have fallen considerably and still tend downward. No railways are being made. Many of the factories in New England are closed, and more than half the operatives in that eection are out of work. In the mining districts there is great distress." But if there be no revival for eix months to come the working classes will again be face to face with the depres sion of another long winter not more hopeful than that from which they are now emerging. The resources of private charity in New York have been well-nigh exhausted during the past five months and the strain is not yet materially diminished. Night-shelters for the homeless and penniless have been established all over the -city, and they are "still nightly filled to their ntmost capacity." The charitable societies confess that the "funds now in their treasuries are only sufficient to reach a comparatively small number of poor families," and they declare that "very soon the sick alone can expect to receive assistance." The British Consul-General reports that he has had more applications for pecuniary assistance and for belp to return to Europe from British subjects in 1876 than in any previous year. In-a single day as many as twenty unspecessful immigrants. have applied to be sent home, and about a thousand have been assisted during the winter, It is possible that the State Governments will make some public provision for relief within the present year. The voluntary applications for committed to the "Workbouse" on Blackwell's Island were very numerous immediately diminished. The place has a taint of criminality about it which makes it an unfit instrument of ordinary relief, though a very proper and effective machinary for the suppression of vagrancy. It is to be observed, indeed, that vagrancy has grown to serious dimensions in the United States during the period of depression.

and that in the rural districts the tramp has occome a terror to lonely households, But the distress among the working classes has taken other and more dangerous forms. It the anthracite coal region of Northern Pennsyl vania, where the ferocious searct society of the "Molly Magnires" had long ruled, there is now a colliery population of 60,000 workmen out of employment. About half of these are Iried and among them Ribboniem was reproduced and applied to trade unionist purposes. The "Moily Maguires" have lately been hunted down energetically by public justice, and some of their leaders who were in not few cases prominent political personages were convicted and brought to punishment But it is more than doubtful whether i the present distress and discontent, the low price of coal compelling a general reduction of wagon, the terrorism of secret associations will not be revived. At Scranton, one of the centres of the district in which work is slackest, the town council was besieged some three weeks ago by a crowd of several hundred of the unemployed, who expressed bitter indignation at the "inhumanity" of the corporate administration in refusing to built new sewers and so on, and thus to find work for the working men. The town council declared that they were forbidden by the Constitution to do anything of the kind but the unemployed raised a threatening cry of "Blood or bread!" and the council, as well as the chief merchants and owners of property in the place, yielded. A resolution was passed intended to pacify the discontented work men by the promise of public works and the immediate offer of relief, but it did not apparently go far enough. "A working man obtained permission to address the meeting, and said that if they did not do snything for the poor they would take the matter into their own hands. There were stores along Lackawanna-avenue andthey would belp themselves .- (Loud cheers.) At this stage there was a great commotion, and Mayor McKuns, sushing forward, called the speaker to order and said, as chief executive officer of the city, he could not permit such threats. (Fearful uproar, and ories of 'We will have bread or blood ! '). The meeting broke up in wild disorder." This is only a single instance of the feeling that prevails in Pennsylvania.

A GAMING STORY. The Paris Figaro is reeponsible for what it considers a good story about the last days of the Westler. Howburg gaming-tables. A German officer quartered there with his regiment for three months at once paid a visit to the trente et quarente table, and, though beginning with a very modest stake, happened to light upon a "series," which, in the course of ball an hour. made him the winner of about £4,000. He did not put in an appearance the next day, but the croupiers and the old hands felt no doubt that he N. H., &co. would soon be tempted back to try his fortune, Day after day passed, however, without his coming inside the casino, and the three months, were on the point of expiring, his regiment having received orders to march the following morning. when he cauntered into what was known as the gold room." Taking a double florin from his pocket he staked it on the black, but not with the same result as before, for the croupler annonneed "rouge gagne." The "gallery "were. expecting him to double his stake, preparatory. of course, to his losing the whole of his winnings, when, muttering." I never have any luck at this game," he turned on his beel and walked out of the room. The only objection to this story is that officers in garrison at Homburg and every description of COAL other places where there were gaming-tables were not allowed to play, and as a matter of fact | No. 48, Praya, Hongkong. never did play at them.

IMPERIAL QUARTO, english and chinese dictionary PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong, TOR comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objectein machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extense. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thoreby effecting a vast comomy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those wast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications. For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese, .In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in Ohing, and to the natives themselves it or plains subjects fully with which vory few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in Chima it cannot but be invaluable occasionally. To illustrate the vast scope of the work, the following fasts are submitted for consideration.
